

Rover INK from Rover Technology Fusions Featured in Court Express

(Tampa, FL – December 31, 2009) – Rover Technology Fusions, a Tampa based mobile-data capture, workflow and data management solutions provider, was highlighted in the Fall issue of Court Express. The article titled “Meeting Strategic Goals and Court Performance Standards through Data Capture Improvement” was written by Winnie Weber, Director of Judicial Information and Technology Services Division of the Administrative Office of the 19th Judicial Circuit Court of Lake County, Illinois.

In the featured story Winnie stated “...recognizing the inefficiency and ultimate costliness of our data process, we made the decision to look at a more streamlined and reliable system than the traditional use of hand written bond reports. After researching our options for a new data capture system, we decided to implement a digital pen and paper solution provided by Rover Technology Fusions.”

Robert Letzeisen, Executive VP & CTO of Rover, stated “The Government in general has always been a great market for Rover’s technology. Lake County’s success is attributed to both Rover INK and the right leadership in place to support and execute the project. Winnie and her staff, with support from their internal stakeholders, should be complimented for their workflow analysis and IT expertise in delivering this project to Lake County’s Law Enforcement.”

“Lake County’s use of Rover INK is great Government market validation. It is truly an honor to be associated with these professionals, and this brings a special feeling of accomplishment for the technology we deliver,” stated Bryan Kearney, CEO of Rover.
